INSTRUCTOR TERRY MILLS is a 32 year veteran of the Missouri State Highway Patrol. He spent years as an undercover officer, specializing in narcotics, outlaw motorcycle gangs, street gangs and criminal investigations including an assignment with the FBI's Joint Terrorism Task Force. Mills is known in the animal welfare community for his role in the 2009 Federal Dog Fight Raid where he worked as a case agent and undercover officer, investigating and helping to successfully prosecute nearly 100 defendants and rescue over 500 Pit Bull fighting dogs in what would become the largest dog fighting raid in US history.
