Help Our Trapped Cats

Cats less accustomed to human interaction generally have a heightened sense of fear and anxiety during clinic visits. These small measures can help this population feel more comfortable.

- Minimizing noise reduces fear and stress
- A dark room helps cats rest and recover
- Separation from dogs and other unfamiliar sounds helps ease anxiety
- Pheromone sprays help cats feel at home
- Sound machines mask loudness elsewhere in the clinic
- Covered traps provide a sense of security