

ASPCA® POISON CONTROL

We've been pioneers in the field of animal toxicology since 1978, and have the world's largest team of veterinarians board-certified in toxicology. We're available 24/7 to provide support whenever your pet needs it.

WHY DOES MY VET NEED TO CALL THE ASPCA?

The ASPCA is the #1 expert in animal toxicology, delivering the most accurate, up-to-date advice, uniquely tailored to meet the needs of pets and their guardians. By bringing the right care to each case, ASPCA Poison Control is always the right call.

Seamless Collaboration

When you're worried your pet has been exposed to poison, you want the very best care from the very best people. We work closely with your veterinarian to create a customized treatment plan, ensuring your pet gets the precise care they need. Plus, our consultation fee covers unlimited follow up calls for the exposure including assessment, tailored treatment plans, home care guidance, and ongoing expert support for your veterinarian when it matters most.

Tailored Expertise, Lifesaving Care

We don't just offer advice — we provide solutions. When appropriate, we guide pet owners through at-home care and ensure veterinarians have the critical information needed for effective treatment. By consulting with us, your veterinarian receives precise treatment recommendations, ensuring the best possible care. Backed by the world's largest toxin database, our experts provide tailored guidance for every pet and situation.

Peace of Mind

Our dedicated team of vet professionals is available 24/7, ensuring that you and your pet receive the most reliable, tailored and up-to-date advice when it matters most.
