

Flowchart for Parvo Response Plan in Shelter

* Fourteen-day quarantines should only be undertaken if it is within the shelter's capacity to do so humanely. Quarantine in foster care can be considered if appropriate biosecurity is feasible in the foster home. With appropriate monitoring and disclosure, proceeding with placement of exposed puppies can also be considered.

 If CPV serology is beyond the shelter's resources, placement of moderate-risk exposed dogs with disclosure of their exposure history or a 14-day quarantine (accounting for the factors noted above) should be considered.
